Art Unit: 2876

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter that the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claims 3 and 4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. Claim 3 recites "the screen's long side"; claim 4 recites "the short side of the rectangular screen". However, these "long" and "short" sides have not been established and have no antecedent basis in the claims. A square is also a rectangle but has 4 equal length sides.

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 1-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Phillipps 6,107,988. Phillipps discloses in column 4, lines 48 – column 5 line 9, a flexible display with first and second rectangular body portions 31,32 and a plastic strap hinge 33. There is disclosed a flexible display panel 37 made of a flexible polymer substrate. In this embodiment Phillipps does not disclose the at least two printed circuit boards or the associated connectors. However, in the embodiment of figures 1-4 (col 2 line 56 – col 3 line 32) and in the embodiment of figures 5-8 (col 3 line 33 – col 4 line 47), Phillipps discloses a pivotal (flexible) display consisting of at least two rectangular LCDs on at least two body portions connected in the middle by a hinge. It would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to use two separate displays as taught in the embodiments of figures 1-4,5-8 in place of the one full screen as in the embodiment of figures 9-13. One reason to do so would be to reduce the excessive wear imparted to the middle of the screen due to the flexing motion from opening and closing the "book".

5. The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

6. Claims 1-6 are rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-6 of U.S. Patent No. 6,688,528.

Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because all the currently claimed limitations can be expressly found within the body of the patent claims or are reasonable inferred therein. The Patent claims recite a flexible display screen with a plurality of connection points, at least two printed circuit boards, and flexible connectors. However, the Patent claims and current claims differ in that the patent claims recite "triangular" screens and the current claims recite "rectangular" screens. However, there is no criticality disclosed other than design choice for the "shape" of the screens. It would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to use rectangular screens in place of the triangle screens of the Patent claims. Rectangular screens are more common and thus easier to obtain for manufacture or repair and also easier to apply existing graphics.
